TC090 / Do-not-fix-yet discipline - Two-card set

Top500 rank 90 - Do not fix first; understand first.

Perception

Notice pain, overload, shame, frustration, grief or your own urge to say "you should," "just," "at least" or "here is what I would do."

Move

Create a non-fixing container. Let the person feel accompanied before their situation becomes your repair project.

Say

"I won't try to fix this yet. I can just stay with you in it for a minute."

Mode menu

Listening, comfort, validation, distraction, sorting options, direct advice, or practical action. Ask after contact, not as a cold intake form.

Do not

Do not silver-line, diagnose, interrogate, rescue, lecture or withhold urgent help. Non-fixing is active support, not abandonment.

Calibrate

Continue when they say more, relax, correct you while staying engaged, or say the non-fixing stance helps. Shift when they ask for help or urgency appears.

Recover

"That came out more advice-y than I meant. I can just listen." Then stop talking and actually listen.

Neighbour distinction

TC015 restrains early advice. TC027 asks permission for advice. TC090 creates the active support space before advice is even on the table.

Safety boundary

If there is immediate danger, abuse, medical/legal risk, or time-critical action, do not hide behind listening mode. Act or escalate.

Field tip

I will not fix first. I will understand first. The discipline is not never fixing; it is not fixing yet.
