THE MOVE

Name the decision -> Options on the table -> Stakes and trade-offs -> Who decides

START HERE

Before any group decision, spend thirty seconds naming: what decision are we making, what are the options, and who makes the final call?

SAY THIS

Decision Framing	"The decision we are making is: ..."
Option Naming	"Option one is X. Option two is Y. Are there others I am missing?"
Quick Frames	"What are we deciding, exactly?"
Naming Trade-offs	"Choosing X means losing Y. I want us to say that out loud before we choose."
Framing Under Press...	"Before another argument starts — can we agree what question we are answering?"

AVOID

- When the decision is urgent and time spent establishing criteria delays it critically.
- When criteria are already agreed and restating them is unnecessary overhead.
- When the decision is a simple preference call with no meaningful trade-offs to evaluate.

REMEMBER

The frame must arrive before the first opinion does.
