

THE MOVE

Recognition + a small warm or context signal + a clean purpose bridge. -> Good to see you. Quick one - I wanted to ask about Friday. -> Thanks for making time. I know your day is packed, so I'll keep this tight. -> Nice to meet you. I heard you'r...

START HERE

Offer a simple greeting plus one warm, relevant line, then bridge straight to why you are there.

SAY THIS

Quick / low-pressure	"Good to see you. Quick one..."
Social / casual	"Good to see you - how's your day actually been?"
Professional / workpl...	"Thanks for making time. The thing I wanted to cover is..."
Requests	"Can I ask a small favour?"
Conflict / difficult top...	"I want to raise this carefully, not make it heavier than it needs to be."
High-status / busy pe...	"I know your time is tight, so I'll be brief."

AVOID

- Urgency or safety needs immediate directness.
- The other person is clearly rushed and just needs the bottom line.
- Warmth would be used to soften a dishonest ask or hide pressure.

REMEMBER

Warm first, then clear.
