Support Response over Shift Response

Phase 5 Batch 1 v24 - full standalone TC001-grade Top500 technique package

Core move

When a self-reference comes to mind, first support their thread with acknowledgement, curiosity or appreciation; only then decide whether your own related point is useful.

Formula

Notice the shift impulse -> support their thread -> invite one more detail -> share only if it adds value -> return to them

Calibration cue

They add more detail after your support line Their tone relaxes rather than tightens They ask for your related experience They continue the same thread rather than giving short answers If the person gives shorter answers, looks tense or corrects the frame, lower...

Minimum viable move

Before saying "That happened to me too", say one support line: "That sounds like a lot - what happened next?"

Failure mode

The main failure mode is hijacking their moment with your own story, then calling it connection. The opposite failure is never sharing back and turning the conversation into an interview.

Field tip

Support first; relate second; return the floor.
