Shared identity language

Front card: Perception -> Move -> Phrase

Perception

Notice a true overlap: shared role, goal, value, pressure, standard, constraint, or relationship.

Move

Name the shared frame modestly. Keep disagreement legitimate and avoid loyalty pressure.

Phrase

"We both care about [X]. We may differ on [Y]. Could we [next step]?"

Good version

"We are protecting different risks, but the outcome is shared. Could we compare the smallest option that protects both?"

Bad version

"We are all team players here, so get on board." This turns identity into pressure.

Field tip: Use the smallest true "we". Keep it true, specific, modest, and difference-friendly.

Shared identity language

Back card: Calibration -> Recovery -> Chain

Calibration

Continue: softening, detail, problem-solving. Adjust: skepticism or weak agreement. Stop: boundary, rejection, pressure signal.

Recovery

"I used we too broadly. I can speak for myself: I care about [X]."

Chain

Warm opening -> TC057 -> Clean request. Reflective listening -> TC057 -> Two-option question. Validation -> TC057 -> Summary check.

Neighbour check

TC039 discovers common ground. TC054 signals similarity. TC057 names a shared identity, role, or same-side goal.

Field tip: Use the smallest true "we". Keep it true, specific, modest, and difference-friendly.
